SINGULAR INCREASE IN U. S. INCOMES

MILLIONAIRES MULTIPLY IN THE UNITED STATES

The Income Tax Payers Who Paid On Over a Million Income In 1924 Was Increased In One Year To One Thousand More In 1926—Prosperity and Deep Slashes In Taxes Have Produced the Greatest Crop of Millionaires the Country Has Ever Known.

Over 95 per cent of the individual income tax collections are paid by 29 of one per cent of the country's population, while 82 per cent of the people pay no income tax.

This is disclosed in an analysis of the effect of the 1926 revenue act, based on the returns for the calendar year, 1925.

One of the significant features of the analysis is the singular increase in the number of persons paying taxes on income of more than $1,000,000. This number jumped to 207 in 1925, comparing with seventy-five in the preceding year and 74 in 1923. Seven persons paid taxes on incomes of more than $5,000,000, reaching an aggregate of $61,382,263.

The number of individual returns, under the law, dropped to 3,954,000, a falling off to 3,250,000. Of those making returns, however, a large number had no taxable income. For 1924, out of 7,369,788 individual returns 4,489,698 showed taxable income. The treasury estimates that for the calendar year, 1925, the number of persons filing taxable returns will drop about 2,000,000.

The total tax collection was six per cent greater under the 1926 law, in the face of a total net income $4,500,000,000 less than that of the preceding year and of lower tax rates and a reduction of approximately $1,240,000,000 in the taxable income. This is explained by the fact that the large decrease in taxable incomes was confined to net incomes under $5,000.

Net incomes in excess of $5,000 showed a marked increase.

Approximately one-half of the returns were filed by persons with net incomes in excess of $95,000 and 40½ per cent of the total collections was paid by individuals with incomes in excess of $100,000. The practical effect of this is that 10,000 persons paid as much taxes as the 2,337,000 smaller tax payers.

Completed corporations tax returns are expected to equal the peak figure of 1924, when 417,421 were filed. The preliminary report for 1925 shows 244,544 reporting net income, establishing a record. Their net income was $9,036,680,163 but this figure is expected to be "appreciably increased" by the full year's returns. The tax returned for 1925 was $1,101,657,078, the largest corporation income tax on record. This tax must be distinguished from the excess profits tax.

"There were two reasons for this increase in the corporation tax," said a formal statement by Acting Secretary Mills, "First, the prosperity of the country, and, second, the increase in the corporation tax rate, offset, however, by the elimination of the capital stock tax. The tax for the year, 1925, was imposed at the rate of 13 per cent instead of 12½ per cent as in 1924.

"The prosperity of corporate industry was also indicated by the reports of the 169,917 concerns reporting no net income, their combined deficits being less than for any year since 1919."

A net income of $2,468,151,693 was reported by 78,219 corporations in New York. Their tax payments aggregated $300,333,155. Pennsylvania corporations paid the second highest tax, $108,440,338 on an income of $569,274,539 for the 13,387 corporations reporting net income. The third state, in amount of payments, was Illinois, in which 16,512 corporations paid a tax of $104,862,188 on a net income of $844,539,126.

FORD STORES STUDIED BY THE DEALERS

Auto King Recovering From Effects of Accident as Merchants Plan Inquiry.

Henry Ford continued Sunday night to progress normally towards complete recovery from the chest and back injuries received a week ago when his light coupe was knocked from the highway by a heavier and more powerful closed car. There still was no indication as to when he would be able to appear as a witness in Aaron Sapiro's $1,000,000 libel suit. Likewise there was doubt as to the trend the suit would take should cross examination of Sapiro be completed without the automobile manufacturer being available as the next witness.

Representative of more than 2000 members of the Michigan Retail Merchants association have been called to meet in a Detroit hotel to discuss the methods and effects of the retail commodities stores of the Ford Motor Co.

The meeting was called by E. J. LaRose, secretary of the association. Reports were current last week that some of the concerns feeling the economic pressure of public sales by the Ford stores had initiated a boycott against users of Ford products.

When the Sapiro-Ford trial is resumed in federal court, Sapiro will be on the witness stand for his sixth day of tilting with Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, chief of the Ford counsel.

Prospects were that the two would continue to match wits for the entire week.

When court adjourned Friday, Senator Reed was inquiring into Sapiro's activities as an organizer of farmers cooperative associations and the fees received for such work. In filing the libel suit Mr. Sapiro alleged that his reputation and work along that line were injured by articles printed in Mr. Ford's weekly, The Dearborn Independent.

Marrying Brother's Son's Widow Is Held Illegal

London.—A curious oversight in the law of England makes it illegal for a man to marry his brother's son's widow, though he can marry his brother's widow.

This was revealed in a ruling by Magistrate Clarke Hall after studying two "marriage problems" put before him. They were: "Can I marry the widow of my brother's son?" and "Can I marry my late wife's mother's sister?" The questions were asked by two men, each of whom insisted he was deeply in love with the woman in question. The magistrate ruled:

"These marriages are forbidden under the old law as set out in the tables at the end of the Book of Common Prayer. The prohibited degree of relationship has been modified comparatively recently by the acts of 1907 and 1921, whereby marriage is permitted with a deceased wife's sister and a deceased brother's widow. Apparently it never occurred to the legislature in passing these acts to extend them to what is a far more remote relationship, namely, a brother's son's wife."

Show New Fabrics for Little GirlsFashions for Mother Found Repeated in Frocks for Young Daughters.

Many of the juvenile fashions take their trend from the adult mode. Frequently enough to excite comment, observes a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star, a marked vogue for mother is found repeated in the diminutive frocks for her young daughters, always in a simplified version, but still with a traceable likeness that reveals its origin. The straightline for which every woman has a warm liking, because she knows it has no equal for maintaining the illusion of the girl's figure, is youth's own. Plaits are used more often than not. These give grace to awkward young bodies and freedom in movement for the strenuous activities which are the order of the day at this age. The two-piece dress, which has been given an extended favor, now develops into a one-piece dress with two-piece effect. Box plaits, kick plaits, large plaits and small plaits are used impartially, sometimes all around; in many instances the back is plain. The lightweight four-ounce woolens lend themselves particularly well to the plaited skirt, and since the color range is wide, youth may be clad appropriately, serviceably and becomingly. No longer need the plain school dress be a hideous dark brown or navy blue serge affair of uncomfortable weight. The new crepes, which the style-wise Parisienne adopted because of their slendering effect, have swept on their wave of popularity through adult fashions into the junior mode, where their appeal, although of different character, is evidenced equally. This fabric is easy to plait and, better yet, stays in plait. It wrinkles scarcely at all and never acquires the dreaded "shine," once the hated mark of the school dress.

Because these new crepe weave woolens are priced rather high—as the novelties of the season always are—they are not for the juvenile wardrobe, which must be kept to the lowest possible figure. Here jersey is the happiest choice. It has many good qualities of its own to recommend it, and is very reasonably priced. Although it cannot be plaited successfully, it is particularly suitable for the peasant type of dress which is being given new life in the spring mode, both for mother and daughter.

For the smaller girl who does not wear woolen dresses, there are all the standard wash fabrics now supplemented by the fabrics of the season. The new cottons are characterized by quaint designs reminiscent of the calicoes of grandmother's day. Another reminder of old favorites is seen in the favor given the old-fashioned rose-sprig dimity. Even the silk crepes reflect the importance of the time-honored motifs in small floral designs. The revival of old patterns also is attended with the return of an old favorite, challis, which is seen in many lovely little dresses.

The details of finish go far in trimming the little girl's dress. Scallop are an effective treatment. Plaitings and ruchings are made the most of in the "best frocks." Although good taste in dressing children still stresses a youthful simplicity, there is a tendency away from severe effects and the little girl now is allowed the perky sash. Gay embroidery in vivid woolens of contrasting color is characteristic of the peasant dress, whether of wool or cotton, and is seen frequently on sheer dress of voile or crepe. The composite theme also is seen in the junior wardrobe on frock of monotone embroidered in conventionalized motifs in several shades of a matching or contrasting color.

SAY PLAN O K'D BY SEIBERLING

New York, April 2.—(UP.)—The plan for re-organization of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. in 1921, as outlined by Leonard Kennedy & Co., and Dillon, Reed & Co., was approved by Frank A. Seiberling, president of the rubber company; Robert T. Swaine of the law firm of Cravath, Henderson & De Gersdorff, testified today.

Swaine, who testified yesterday, continued as a witness for the defense in the deposition hearings in the suit of Goodyear stockholders to oust Clarence Dillon and John Sherwin as trustees of the re-organized company.

Frank Seiberling, together with his cousin, Francis Seiberling, were anxious to have the re-organization plan put into effect without delay in order that the Goodyear company could pay its many debts, Swaine said.

Cabin Last Landmark of British Occupation

Du Pont, Wash.—For 84 years or more the square-hewn timbers of a cabin built by British subjects when the Union Jack flew over the Puget sound have withstood the ravage of storm and decay. It stands on the site of old Fort Nisqually, founded as a Hudson Bay company trading post and the first permanent home of the white man on the sound.

Historians affirm it is the sole remaining landmark of the days of British occupation. Arrangements have been made to mark it with a bronze tablet setting forth many of the interesting facts that linked the structure with the stirring history of the Northwest.

The cabin is roofed with the original shakes on one side, although the other was reroofed by Edward Huggins, last factor of the Hudson Bay company, who homesteaded the property when it became part of the United States.

Where Girls Are Scarce

There are two large American companies doing business on the island of Spanish Honduras and the American colony is about 600 or 700 strong, but they are nearly all men. The proportion of women is about one to fifteen and this is a very favorable one to the unmarried girl. Women who may be almost devoid of any physical or other charms are enabled to pose as minor belles in that place.
The native girls give a certain amount of attention to the American gentlemen and by adopting the ways and wiles of the American flapper, they are said to fill the bill. Many of the American men marry the native girls.

$250 PRODUCTS OUT
OF TON OF STRAW*Gas for Autos Even Declared Possible.

New York.—A process by which a ton of straw may be burned to extract $250 worth of useful products from the smoke has been discovered by George H.
Harrison, an industrial chemist, according to announcement by the magazine Farm and Fireside.

The chemist, it is said, has obtained 1,000 pounds of products from each ton of wheat or oat straw, the products including a new germicide favorably reported on by the Mayo brothers of Rochester,
a roofing and damp-proofing paint, and a fly spray.
It is even possible, but not yet economically practical, to run an automobile on gas obtained from the straw, the magazine quotes the chemist as saying in an interview accorded in his laboratory near St. Paul, Minn.

"There is, indeed," said Mr. Harrison, "hardly any limit to the products that can be derived from straw by destructive distillation. When the process has grown up to its possibilities every American farmer who grows grain will feel the difference. Even now, if you would take me to a farm and offer me the grain or the straw, I would take the straw. Potentially, at least, it is the more valuable of the two."

Justice Qualifies as Authority on Mules

Raleigh, N. C.—There is no telling when a mule will kick, and the only way to escape danger is not to go near the heels of one, the North Carolina Supreme court holds.

Associate Justice Brogden, graduate of a farm in Wayne county, does the writing in the case of Mrs. Sam Rector vs. Southern Coal company, and reverses the lower court which refused to grant a nonsuit in a personal injury case in which the plaintiff was awarded $600 in damages.

It was not alleged that the husband of the plaintiff, who has since died, was kicked, but that he was pressed to the wall of the stable by a mule. He had gone in the stable to look for eggs and there was no evidence that the mule had been vicious before.

"What duty does the owner of a mule owe to an employee who has charge of the mule and gets into the stable where the mule is?"

Here's the question to which the jurist from Durham addresses himself in the opinion in which he expats on mule lore. "A mule is a melancholy creature," the jurist remarks.
"It is a nullus filius in the animal kingdom. It has been said that a mule has neither 'pride of ancestry nor hope of posterity.' It is a matter of common knowledge among men who know mules and deal with them that they are uncertain, moody and morose."

Pair of Boots Makes
Trip to Pole Twice

Seattle, Wash.—Several men claim the honor of having flown over the North pole once, but Commander Richard Byrd, arctic flyer, has a pair of boots with him in Seattle that has made the trip twice. Byrd had the boots made in Nome by an Eskimo for his flight across the pole. They were shipped 500 miles by dog team, then on to New York. Byrd took them with him to Spitzbergen and wore them when he successfully crossed the pole in his plane.

When he returned Byrd loaned the boots to Lincoln Ellsworth, who wore them when he crossed the pole in the dirigible Norge with Amundsen.

Prisoner Makes Up Payroll Under Guard

Battle Creek, Mich.—Mark

shell-shocked war veteran, made out the $80,000 payroll of the Veterans' Bureau hospital No.
100, while under guard of Deputy United States Marshal J.
Cooper Huffman.

Richardson's arrest brought to light the fact that he is the only person connected with the institution who is qualified to issue the pay checks. Through the efforts of hospital officials Richardson was taken from his cell at the police headquarters here and conveyed to the hospital, where he consented to make out the payroll.

LAUGHTER AND MUSIC CALORE
SCHOOL PLAYS*"The Neighbors" and "Mock Trial" Furnish Real Fun
on Tuesday Evening.

The Circleville high school on Tuesday evening, April 5, at 8 o'clock, at the C. H. S. auditorium, will present a program of music and laughter, which promises to provide a very enjoyable evening.

The High School Dramatic class has been busy for weeks preparing two one-act plays to be presented in this program. This class is directed by Mr. Wyatt and there will be no "drag" or slow moment, either in "The Neighbors" or in "The Mock Trial."

Miss Helen Wittich has been directing the High School Glee club for their part in the evening's performance, and those who enjoy group singing will not be disappointed in this assembly of young voices. The Glee club will present several numbers.

Miss Wittich has also organized the pupils of the second grade of Corwin school into a "Toy Orchestra" which will make its first public appearance on this evening and is really the feature of the evening. These very young musicians cannot fail to please you.

Several vocal solos will be presented and Mabel Young will appear in a blackface monologue which will give you enough laughs for a week.

A great deal of effort has been expended by the pupils in preparation for this event and you will be unfortunate if anything prevents your presence.

DO NOT FAIL

That It Contains Typhoid Fever Germs.

Service Director Louis Schneider
has received a letter from the state board of health in which they say that of the three samples of water sent from this city that the first was unsatisfactory, the second questionable, the third satisfactory.

The department calls for other samples collected in duplicate from a single point. After this is done an additional report will be received.

Mr. Schneider has issued the following statement:

Boil water for the present.

There are other samples at the state laboratory for examination. Will get report the latter part of this week.
The samples referred to in letter were taken from Scioto and Harrison unsatisfactory. Court and Wilson avenue questionable. Fountain at court house satisfactory. Samples were taken March 24, 1927. Have ordered all pipes flushed by the Water company.

DEMAND FOR "GAGS" THAT BRING LAUGH

Laughter means bread and butter and success to the comedians of the vaudeville and legitimate stage, and they are constantly in search of material that will stimulate mirth.

In New York are six young men who make it their business to supply jokes, funny lines and situations, and, known along the Rialto as "gag" writers, they enjoy good incomes as laugh makers. The charge for "gags" is reckoned in minutes, and $100 for 60 seconds of mirth-provoking lines is no exceptional price. The vaudevillian, feeling that his act needs bolstering up, seeks out the "gag" writer and orders one, two, three, four or more minutes of sure-fire stuff and is mighty glad to pay the $100-a-minute fee.

A 17-minute vaudeville act to get into the "wow" class must have 10 or 11 minutes of laughter. Often the act sags in the middle or has a weak finish, and the comedian gets him to the "gag" writer, pronto, and orders a minute or two of genuine laughter.

KING OF SPAIN
MAY VISIT U. S.*Plans Trip in About Year, Says Financier.

New York.—King Alfonso of Spain will come to the United States within a year. He will make the trip on one of the two 30,000-ton ocean liners which the Spanish Royal Mail line is building.

So Conde de Guell, the wealthiest grandee of Castile, who, by reason of his ancient title of marquis of Comila, enjoys the medieval distinction of being able to stand before the king without removing his hat, announced when he arrived on the Spanish Royal Mail liner Alfonso XIII.

The liner, described as the most expensive ship ton for ton ever to call here, made her first visit to New York
more auspicious by establishing a record of 64 hours for the run from Havana to New York.

Known as the "Henry Ford of Spain" because of his vast industrial holdings and generally accepted as an authority on art, particularly polychrome sculptures, the Conde de Guell said the two new liners would be rushed to completion to comply with King Alfonso's double wish—that they bring Americans to Spain and the fair at Seville in 1928, and bring him to his country the same year.

The two vessels, already named Piz-arro, after the conqueror of Peru, and Cortez, after the conqueror of Mexico, running between New York and Vigo or Coluna, are expected to establish the fastest service to Europe. Meanwhile the Alfonso XIII, one of the most luxurious ships afloat, and her sister ship, the Cristobal Colon, will be operated between here and Coluna in five and a half days.

The Conde de Guell was met by Alexander P. Moore, former ambassador to Spain, who said Spain was the only European power that does not owe us money and hence treat Americans as "visitors," not "tourists."

Educated at the University of Barcelona, from which he received the degree of doctor of laws, and in Cambridge university, the Conde de Guell, who is making his first visit to this country, is the dominating factor of Spain's industrial life and controls many public utilities.

The dining rooms and salons of the Alfonso XIII are decorated in the rich style of the Spanish Seventeenth century and hung with priceless Goyas tapestries. Her galleries are finished in elaborate arabesque and tiled with the Moorish mosaic of Granada. The liner was built in 1923 and has been operated between Spain and Cuba and Mexico.

World's Largest Building

The main building of the Buffalo World's fair of 1902, more strictly known as the Building of Manufactures and Liberal Arts, is the largest building ever erected by man. It covered 31 acres and cost $1,750,000. St. Peter's at Rome ranks second to this structure in size.

Alphonse and Gaston

Easily the most astounding motor event of 1926 occurred in one of the year's traffic jams, says Motor Magazine.

Two cars collided with damaging effect on both, but the drivers were unhurt. One man jumped to the street and declared that he was entirely to blame for the accident, and apologized profusely. But the second driver protested vigorously.

"This one is on me," was the retort.
Whereupon history was made.

Young Diplomat

Mrs. Jones, who was busily sweeping the floor, was bothered by Junior,
her small son, until she exclaimed:
"Now Junior, you sit on that chair and when I finish sweeping I'm going to spank you."

Junior climbed into the chair and sat brooding for a few minutes.
Finally he said: "Oh, mother dear,
I just think you're the cutest thing."
Of course that saved the day for Junior.

AMUSEMENTS

"If the Jazz Age has done nothing else, it's made mothers popular," according to Lois Wilson, featured along with Warner Baxter, Neil Hamilton and Georgia Hale in Herbert Brenon's new Paramount production, "The Great Gatsby," which arrives at the Met on Monday.

"Only a few years ago," says Miss Wilson, "no young actress would play a mother role. It was a sure sign that she was definitely out of the ingenue class. The lady was automatically relegated to that slightly innocuous, care-worn decrepitude of hausfrau. Night clubs, the Charleston and Prohibition cocktails were taboo. Her hair was gray—and small wonder. The parts written for her were likewise drab and dull. Even tho a mother in real life, that fact had to be guarded like some terrible secret."

"Now all is different. Playing the part of a young mother is merely a tribute to one's versatility. The jazz mama, similar to Daisy Buchanan which I play in "The Great Gatsby," is often more attractive than her daughter. I can name several examples of screen players who have recently been cast in mother roles: Aileen Pringle, Alice Joyce, Florence Vidor, Esther Ralston and numerous others. They are all young and beautiful and will be playing flappers or ingenues tomorrow. So much for the much-decried Jazz Age. Its destructive energies have broken down the line between age and youth, with results that are by no means confined to the mimic world of stage and screen."

Odd Use for Birds' Wings

CHIEF HONORED,
THEN EXECUTED

Chinese Justice Moves
Swiftly in Case of Convicted Traitor.

Harbin, Manchuria.—Sleek and prosperous, smiling at the recollection of the honors just heaped upon him at the capital city of Mukden and happy to be back in his home city, where he owned a luxurious mansion, where he was a heavy investor in real estate and a theater magnate, and where his Russian wife was awaiting him, General Yang-cho, the Chinese vice president of the Chinese Eastern railway, alighted from his special car here one morning recently.

The next morning his body lay in a rude coffin set out on the bleak plain at the edge of the city used as a garbage dump. The wealth that was his was confiscated to the coffers of Chang Tso-lin. His titles, rank, and positions were stripped away and he died before a firing squad, a convicted traitor.

Such is the way justice moves in China.

Was Backed by Moscow.

Information had reached Chang Tso-lin that the man he had trusted and placed in high office in Harbin was plotting a revolution, had received a large sum of money to carry out his plan from Moscow, and had betrayed China to Russia in matters connected with the Chinese Eastern railway. This information came to Chang through the Japanese secret service.

The suspected general was accordingly invited to Mukden to confer with Chang Tso-lin, who entertained him and generally kept him busy long enough for the Harbin Chinese military authorities to seize his wife, search his house, and secure documentary and other proof of his guilt.

He was arrested just as he was stepping into his limousine and hurried to military headquarters, where a special court-martial, sent secretly from Mukden by Chang Tso-lin, was already sitting on his case.

Admits His Guilt.

He was confronted with the documentary evidence seized, broke down, and confessed. Sentence of death was passed upon him, confirmed by telegram by Chang Tso-lin, and carried out during the night, the firing squad consisting of a single soldier, who put a bullet into the traitorous general's head at close quarters, shooting by the light of a lantern held close to the condemned man's face by another soldier.

The exact details of the plot in which General Yang-cho was engaged have not been made public. One report is that he was about ready to launch a revolution, establish the Communist state of Manchuria, and proclaim himself its first president.

Yang-cho had been known to every foreigner in north Manchuria. He was well educated, spoke English and Russian perfectly, attended most of the dances given in Harbin and entertained extensively in his beautiful home. Recently he bought a controlling interest in Harbin's three largest moving picture theaters and had announced his intention of starting a string of such theaters throughout the cities of both north and south Manchuria.

California Women Best

Dressers, Says Expert

Paris.—California women dress better than any others in the United States, says Mrs. Benjamin Hayme, Paris dressmaker, who runs a shop under the name of Marjorie Lou.

Mrs. Hayme is herself a Californian, having been born in Santa Barbara and educated in San Francisco. But her opinion is unbiased, she believes, because years of life in New York, South America and Paris have intervened since she was actually resident in California.

Next to California women, in the approval of the fashion designer, come women of the Argentine. The California woman breathes vigor, health and wholesomeness, she says. Argentina typifies grace. She can achieve style with a breadth of black cloth and a string of pearls, according to Mrs. Hayme.

Three years ago Marjorie Lou opened a shop in Buenos Aires, where her husband is a planter. Last year she extended her business to Paris and now she operates dress houses in both cities.

Drunken Hogs on Hind

Legs Lead Drys to Still

Sacramento, Calif.—Inebriated hogs that stood on their hind legs and danced and grunted led a squad of federal dry agents under A. E. McCoy to a still hidden in a pigsty. The drinking pigs were on the farm of Tony Sardini of Bryte. The officers allege that the intoxicated condition of the hogs was due to mash feed.

All Alike

London.—American and English flappers are alike, in the opinion of Mrs. James Higble of San Jose, Calif. "They both like their cocktails and their smokes."

Three Dimes Per Horse

Dauton, Pa.—Three horses were sold at auction for 90 cents, averaging just 8 dimes per horse.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

The first of this season's weddings occurred Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bentley, when their daughter, Hester, became the bride of Mr. William C. Watson. Rev. David McDonald, of Lancaster, assisted by Rev. Benjamin DeCamp, of this city, performed the full Episcopal ring service. The decorations of the house was carried out in a scheme of yellow and white in all the rooms. On either side of the altar, in the parlor, were tall baskets filled with yellow and white snapdragons and carnations. At the back were banked lacy ferns to form a background for a large, silver candelabrum which contained white wedding candles.

Miss Eva Bentley, the bride's sister was the maid of honor and the best man was Mr. Gale Watts, of Chillicothe. Six school friends of the bride served as ribbon bearers. They were dressed in taffeta frocks of the different shades of the rainbow, and a bouffant style. The six girls were Miss Helen Schiear and Miss Lucile Rooney, of this city; Miss Martha Traphagan, of Washington C. H.; Miss Janet Pierce of Flint, Michigan; Miss Pauline McCreary, of Newark and Miss Agusta Watson, of Tiffin. They wore sweet peas corsages to match their dresses. Miss Eleanor McCann, of Dayton, played the wedding march. Little Mary Jane Schiear was the flower girl. She wore a pink georgette dress and carried a basket filled with rose petals, which she strewed in the path of the wedding party.

The bride's gown was of white bridal satin, made with a slight drape on the left side and short sleeves and trimmed with lace from her mother's wedding dress. She wore no ornaments. Her shoulder train of white net, was bound in Japanese lace, and she wore a coronet of orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and sweet peas. Her going away costume was a French blue georgette dress and hat and kasha cloth coat of the same color. The coat was trimmed in grey squirrel and her slippers and gloves were grey. She carried a corsage of sweet peas.

The fifty guests were served a two course tea. In the dining room white satin ribbon and crystal candelabra decorated the bride's table, with the wedding cake in the center.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Watson and son, Junior, of near Lancaster, parents of the groom; Miss Marion Watson, Mr. Neil Watson, Misses Margaret and Gladys Watson of Lancaster; Mrs. Betz, of Columbus, and Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Black, of Catlettsburg, Kentucky.

Mr. Watson is a graduate of Ohio State university, and a former teacher in Circleville high school. He is now superintendent of schools in Moxahala. During the war he was military instructor at the Baldwin-Wallace Officers' Training school at Cleveland. He is also engaged in stock farming with his father and brothers at Baltimore, Fairfield county.

The bride is a graduate of Circleville high school in the class of 1925, and has, up to her marriage attended Denison university at Granville. She is a member of the Shepardson sorority of the university and a member of the Masquers' club.

The couple will be at home in New Lexington after a three day wedding trip. Their apartment is just newly furnished.

HAVE FOUND MEANS TO FIGHT BEETLE

The new attractive agent, geraniol, developed by the bureau of entomology as an aid in its control work against the Japanese beetle, has been found very successful. Methods have been worked out whereby this material may be used to concentrate the beetles in a relatively small area.

It was found that by spraying less than an acre of orchard with geraniol beetles could be drawn on the leeward side of the orchard for a distance of nearly one-half mile within the first fifteen minutes after the spray had been applied. This makes it possible to destroy large numbers of beetles with a comparatively small quantity of a contact spray. Further work has been done on traps baited with geraniol, but although these capture large numbers of beetles, it is not felt that a trap has been developed which can be recommended for general use.

Increased efforts were made last summer to develop a repellent which could be used on fruit trees without leaving a deposit on the foliage or fruit. It was found that certain odors, particularly the odor of tar, are distinctly repellent to the Japanese beetle.

Screw Thread Idea Old

The invention of the screw is ascribed to Archimides, 250 B. C. The American or United States standard thread is based on the investigation made by William Sellers and presented to the Franklin Institute in a paper read in April, 1864.

Master of Mockery

The mocking bird belongs to the thrush family of North America. Its natural song is most melodious, but it has in addition a marvelous imitative faculty, being capable of imitating almost any sound, so as to deceive even the most attentive and trained ear

He Is a Fighter

All the Cassowaries are inhabitants of forests, and are strictly diurnal. The largest, found in New Guinea, is nearly six feet in height when erect, says Nature Magazine, and with its powerful legs and sharp claws, backed by a pugnacious temper, can defend itself against most adversaries.

Hawaiian Appellation

Kanakas is the name given to the natives of the Hiwaian Islands, formerly known as the Sandwich Islands. The name is also applied to natives of the New Hebrides and other South sea islands, many of whom were employed on the sugar plantations of Queensland, Australia.

Growth of Grandma
"Billy, aged four," says the Charles News and Courier, "was on his way to visit his grandmother, whom he had not seen for more than a year. 'Gosh!' he remarked, being a slangy little boy, 'I'll bet grandma has grown so I won't know her!'"—Boston Transcript.

Wilt-Resistant Melon Is Tested

Conqueror Found to Be of Very Good Quality and Sold Readily.

Conqueror, the wilt-resistant variety of watermelon developed by the federal Department of Agriculture, not only has proved to be resistant to this serious disease when grown in Illinois but also was found to be a very good quality and sold quite easily, especially to the local trade, according to H. W. Anderson, associate chief of pomological pathology at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, who had charge of the test. In many cases, the trade preferred the Conqueror melon to the Tom Watson, which has recently been the favorite market melon. The test of the wilt-resistant variety is being made in White county, where the horticultural department of the agricultural college has been growing the variety for the past three years.

Conqueror Is Ready Sale.
The ready sale of the Conqueror melon and its high resistance to wilt has encouraged growers to continue planting it, and many will give it a trial this season, according to Anderson. A limited amount of seed of the variety may be obtained from White county farm bureau.

Watermelon wilt, against which the Conqueror variety is resistant, is a soil-carried disease and in many of the old watermelon-growing sections of Illinois it has become so severe that the growing of melons has had to be abandoned. The disease lives for many years in the soil, with the result that when land once becomes infested it cannot be used for at least ten years for growing melons.

Development of Conqueror.
The Conqueror melon was developed a number of years ago in an effort to meet the situation. At that time the round type of melon was popular. Later the long type, such as the Tom Watson, was introduced and became the favorite market melon. For this reason, the wilt-resistant variety known as the Conqueror was almost forgotten. Recently when the wilt became so bad that it eliminated the melon industry from many sections, growers sought relief through their farm advisers and the agricultural college. In an effort to help solve the problem, the college started testing the Conqueror variety in White county for the purpose of finding out whether or not it was resistant under Illinois conditions and whether or not it would meet the existing market demands.

Lead Arsenate on Apples Removed by New Solution

An efficient and inexpensive method of removing excessive arsenical residues from apples sprayed for the control of the codling moth has been devised by the Colorado experiment station. The details of this method, worked out by Dr. Wm. P. Headdon, chemist, appear in "Removal of Arsenate of Lead From Sprayed Fruit," recently published as Press Bulletin 63.

According to the bulletin, the new solution is cheap, quick-acting, effective, and causes no bad effects upon the fruit. It is made by taking four pounds each of soda ash and ordinary table salt and dissolving them in one hundred pounds of water. This solution can be used in either wooden or iron vessels. It should be heated to 100 degrees Fahrenheit, but should not be raised materially above that temperature.

Enough apples are then added to the solution to cover the surface thickly. The apples should be stirred gently with a mop or some equivalent instrument, care being taken not to bruise them. The stirring should be continued for ten minutes. On removal from the bath the apples should be rinsed to remove the wash liquid.

Farm Hints

High yields are made, not born of chance.

It is a wise farmer who knows his own planting seed.

Grow trees while you wait; you are going to wait anyway.

Blessed is the farmer who trusteth in legumes, for his soil shall be enriched.

Rye seed that is more than a year old cannot be depended on to give a good stand of grain.

Where soil fertility is a problem the absence of a legume in the rotation hastens the date of the sheriff's sale.

The enthusiastic gardener thinks that "a little too much is just about right" in the matter of quality of vegetables.

Sweet clover hay has feeding value almost equal to alfalfa. Although more of it is wasted, it is still an economical feed at $6.50 a ton.

A farm machinery hospital saves time and money and during cold winter and early spring days is a very busy place for the successful farmer.

School's Distinction
The school of tropical medicine in San Juan, Porto Rico, was opened September 22, 1926. This school has the distinction of being the first college of its kind established in the Americas, although several of the leading medical schools of North and South America have departments devoted to the study of tropical medicine.

PUBLISHER'S

HOME RAIDED

By Thugs—Private Papers of Slain Editor's Successor Are Searched.

Canton, O., April 1.—(UP.)—"Jungle" thugs were blamed today for a mysterious invasion of the home of Charles E. Morris, publisher of the Canton Daily News, disturbing only revolvers and private papers.

Police were undecided today whether to interpret the burglary as an indication of violence against the publisher of the paper whose editor, Don R. Mellett, was slain by gangsters last year.

The man broke into the house when Mr. and Mrs. Morris and their daughter, Marion, left for only an hour.

They took an automatic pistol, which Morris had been carrying since the Mellett murder and removed the chamber from another pistol. Two suitcases full of private papers were ransacked. Jewelry and watches were not taken.

STARVING

To Be Thin Causes Much Illness Says Beauty Expert.

More harm will come to a young woman from trying to be overly thin than from any or all of the milder forms of dissipation, warns Eileen Bourne, beauty expert, in an article in this week's Liberty. "Fat leads as the energy-building food," Miss Bourne explains, "and the body cannot store a reserve supply of energy without the consumption of a quantity of fat."

"Physicians generally agree," she points out, "that it is not half so much the so-called dissipation of the younger generation—the occasional cigarette or the sip of stimulant—that are responsible for the common depression and nervous attacks, as it is the fact that they have not enough reserve muscle and fat. "If weight is kept at the right level, there is no reason why life should not be one paean of joy for the young. But in their misdirected zeal to become or remain excessively thin, women accomplish most regrettable physical disturbances. And if they insist upon pursuing this practice, weak spots on the lungs and general anaemia may be developed. Without energy-building foods, the circulation becomes impaired and fatigue poisons weaken the system."

SNAPPY SENTENCES

Work has bitter roots but sweet fruit.

Whom fortune favors the world favors.

It's a poor seed that isn't stronger than the soil.

Another of the world's gruelling tasks is dieting.

The product of a tight shoe or an oak tree is a corn.

Fame is to notoriety what the real turtle is to the mock.

It's a man's weakness that finally overpowers his strength.

Give some people half a chance and they will take the other half.

Hang a horseshoe over the door, but be sure to lock the door.

A woman will pardon want of sense quicker than lack of manners.

There is but one virtue—the eternal sacrifice of self.—George Sand.

Company, villainous company, hath been the spoil of me.—Shakespeare.

A woman may win a man's love without trying, but she can't keep it that way.

The rays of happiness, like those of light, are colorless when unbroken.—Longfellow.

It's all right to acquire popularity, but the good opinion of many a man isn't worth the price.

We once heard of a man who wrote a book on "How to Get Rich" who had actually done it himself.

"Matrimony is a serious word," says a domestic science lecturer. Wrong. Matrimony is a sentence.

If some used their hands as actively as they use their tongues they would soon master self-discontent.

People who enjoy peripatetics are people that don't mind perspiration.

Many a man's wife dresses stylishly because his creditors can afford it.

When a man is going to the dogs he usually meets the dogs about half way.

And you may sometimes judge a man by the company that doesn't keep him.

WAS THE WATCH YOU CARRY NEW...WHEN HANSOMS RULED THE STREETS?

A watch may never lose a second yet be many years slow

For Elgin is conceded to be the world's standard for watch integrity.

Artichoke Sugar

Levulose, called the finest of all sugars, is prophesied from artichokes at 2 cents a pound within five years, as the result of further experiments by the United States bureau of standards. Crystallization of the levulose from a water solution marks the turning point of the bureau's experiments, for in all previous work treatment with alcohol was necessary. The new development, says Popular Science Monthly, may place artichoke sugar on the same footing with cane or beet sugar as a commercial process.

GIFT OF $1,000,000 NETS DUKE $740,000

Gives Library to Columbia for $60,000 Annuity.

New York.—How an annuity provision attached to a $1,000,000 gift to Columbia university left the university even, enabled the donor to receive $1,740,000 and cost a life insurance company $1,040,000 more than it received has just been disclosed.

Joseph Florimond, the Duc de Lombat and former New York clubman, the donor, died at ninety-six in Paris 29 years after his donation of an improved and well-tenanted building in downtown Broadway to the university for its library.

The decline of real estate values since the gift was made and the duke's unexpected long life were the governing factors in the philanthropic gamble.

Only Worth $700,000.

The property today is valued at $700,000—the amount spent by Columbia to insure the annuity when receipts from the property threatened to fall below the amount needed for the annuity payments.

The Duc de Loubat was sixty-seven when he made the gift. While he drew $1,740,000 in 27 annuities he lived abroad and acted as patron to the arts and sciences in Europe, distributing part of his annual check from Columbia to foreign institutions.

Enthusiasm prevailed at Columbia
at the time the gift was accepted.
Provisions of the deed of gift were that after the $60,000 annuity was paid, the balance of receipts annually was to go to the university, and at the death of the donor the entire income was to be used for a library in honor of the duke's parents, which, Columbia hoped, would be the greatest in the country. Life expectancy tables showed the probability of the duke's living 12 years after he made the gift.

Planned Huge Library.

It soon became apparent that the annuity, taxes and other expenses exceeded receipts. For four years Columbia made up the difference. Then it bought a $60,000 annuity for the duke from an insurance company.

If Columbia breaks even on the property, it will be ahead in its relations with the duke. He gave the university $10,000 for book prizes in 1892
and added $100,000 in 1903 for a chair of American archeology.

30 Years a Minister;

Uses Obey Only Once

Murfreesboro, Tenn.—Thousands of marriage ceremonies but only one
"obey" in 30 years, is the record of Rev. E. L. Atwood, president of the Murfreesboro college for young women.

The only time he included "obey" was at the request of the bride—and he hasn't been able to figure out yet why she asked.

"Love, honor—and esteem," he says. "Obey brings friction and trouble. Marriage today is regarded as a partnership and a mutual obligation. Our modern girl has a mind of her own and uses it regardless of what other people think. It is no more fair or sane to expect her to promise to obey the husband than to expect him to promise to obey her."
